ENGLISH SUMMARY URBAN AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT

06 Balancing urban and rural construction development needs constructing scientific and standard village and town construction standard system

In order to balance urban and rural construction, and actively, prudently promote urbanization, it is necessary to further improve comprehensive service capacity of village and town planning construction. Strengthen guidance and support to village and town construction, and ensure the village and town planning construction level and development quality. Under the background of our country being in face of more distinct constraint and conflict between the population increase and the energy, land and water resource environment. it is of realism significance to implement allround research on village and town construction standard system and key technical standard so as to support further healthy and rapid development in village and town construction.

27 Elegance in Hangzhou and People first

The human culture reflects its intension, while the city culture appears as landscape features. If regard as an organism, like human, it has "Her" character intension. If manifest externally, it is environmental landscape feature. Elegance and people first, belong to the landscape feature of Hangzhou, and "Her" charter of Hangzhou.

36 Urban public transportation development strategy in cold area

The urban development in cold area has slower updating rate than the developed provinces, where the public traffic problems come from both common cause and unique district cause, so in order to accelerate urban public transportation construction, it should synchronous develop in micro and macro levels both, with scientific and precise macropolicy to ensure healthy development of urban public transportation; with effective, feasible human-friendly measures to ensure realization of urban public transport concepts, both are complementary and indispensable.

68 Practice and thinking of developing discount loans for low-income housing provident fund loan families

Since the second half of 2006, in Huzhou City Zhejiang Province, it's been issued interest subsidies to low-income housing provident fund loan families, more than 90% beneficiaries of whom are staff from non state-owned enterprises. It's effectively relieved these families' burden in payment of loan, supported low-income families' housing consumption, and it's also an effective exploration in perfecting the housing provident fund system.

79 Walk in Heshun Lane

Walking in Heshun Lane is as if strolling in Jiangnan renowned water town. Dwellings of antique beauty, authentic ecological environment, primitive, simple, pure folklore custom, form a poetic and painting imagery of human and nature in harmony. The Lane is built along Sanhe River, paved with local unique green slabstones that are smooth, glistening throughout wind and frost of years.
