ENGLISH SUMMARY

URBAN AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT

06 Digitization boosts more effective urban management

At the national work summary and communication meeting of digital urban management, Qiu Baoxing, Vice Minister of Ministry of Housing and Urban-rural Development, analyzed the current development trend of urban management with a focus on improving digital urban management. Li Rusheng, Deputy Director-general of Department of Urban Construction, emphasized the importance in indefatigable grasping of digital urban management, with a review of experience exchange in digital urban management in such cities as Hangzhou and Yangzhou. The meeting will greatly boost high efficient urban management.

30 Moulding of urban characteristics and planning control in coastal region

The International Cruise Center, Dalian City Liaoning Province, takes the international cruise home port as main construction, and incorporates travel and leisure, culture and entertainments, commerce and office, hotel and apartments, and passenger port into a new comprehensive district. By combining with the research of overall characteristics of the planning region, it divides the region into the marine port district, central business district and commercial facilities district. Therefore, it forms a harmonious new urban coastal landscape with the surrounding area of land function, development intensity and spatial pattern.

40 Gaoyou: promotes the urban construction integrally, with a focus on elevating the city's quality

Gaoyou City, Jiangsu Province, strives for promoting urban construction, around the target for active construction of the "famous prosperous industrial and commercial city, famous characteristic city, famous lakeside tourist city, and famous nationwide historical and cultural city". The city experiences a fast changing view, and all round elevation of urban image and quality. According to the general thoughts of urban-rural orchestration, urban areas to drive rural area areas, industry to drive agriculture, and coordinated development, it insists on double-wheel drive of urbanization and industrialization. By centered around the downtown city, supported by key town, taking advantage of characteristic towns, and taking central villages as nodal points, it promotes benign interaction of urbanized and new village constructions, creates new strength in development, and constructs a solid platform for sustainable economic and social development of the city.

59 Suqian: with innovative work pattern, creates high-quality conformable housing villages and towns

Suqian City, Jiangsu Province, is established according to the new village construction requirement of "booming production, well-off life, civilized local customs, neat village appearance, domestic administration". Aimed at creating the cleanest, most modern and ecological new village, based on actual development, it further coordinates urban and rural development, and explores a new pattern in new village construction during urban-rural interactions.

67 Xiangtan: perfects the housing security system, and solves the housing problem of low income families

In order to solve the housing problem of low income families, Xiangtan City, Hunan Province, effectively improves the housing security system, accelerates promotion of low-cost housing construction, greatly develops affordable housing, and launches totally alteration of shanty area and public rental pilot project, which obtains good results.
